

Ara Cho

Partner - Peter & Kim (a member of Special Committee on International Human Rights at Korean Bar Association) / South Korea

Ara Cho is a partner at Peter & Kim in Seoul, and a member of Special Committee on International Human Rights and Special Committee on Immigrants and Refugees at Korean Bar Association.

Although Ara's main practice area is international commercial and investment arbitration, she has continuously been involved in various activities promoting rights of immigrants and refugees residing in South Korea. Her activities in this regard include, representing asylum seekers and migrant workers in court proceedings, publishing a report on human rights status of the foreigner detention centers, and coordinating the publication of the annual key court judgments addressing the issues related to immigration and refugees.

Ara graduated from Seoul National University (School of Law, LL.B) in 2007, and received a Master of Law degree from Stanford Law School's International Economic Law, Business and Policy program in 2017.