

Gema Gita Persada (she/her)

Public Interest Lawyer – Legal Aid Center for The Press (LBH Pers) | Indonesia

Gema Gita Persada is a Public Interest Lawyer at Legal Aid Center for The Press. Just having her Law Degree in 2021, she is currently providing legal aid to the people in need in order to implement the advocacy work in regard to promoting human rights more specifically in freedom of press, freedom of expression, the rights to information and the rights to privacy. She is now working on several cases regarding digital rights issues, including but not limited to the cases that happened to journalists and/or media.

Beside conducting her role as a lawyer, she is also involved in the creation of a public interest lawyer network concerning digital privacy issues in Indonesia. She is one of the Personal Data Protection Advocacy Strategy Guide-Book authors, a Guide-Book which was published by her organization that aimed to help Legal Aid Providers all across Indonesia in handling Personal Data Protection Violations cases. She has been invited to speak in her own capacity to talk about freedom of press issues nationally and sharing advocacy experiences internationally.
