

Yayoi HASEGAWA

Ms Yayoi HASEGAWA is an attorney at law in Japan, specializing in family law issues, including international cases. She also has experience representing female victims in online-related cases, such as coercion to online pornography. She studied at Kyoto University for her bachelor's in law and at Queen Mary University of London for her LL.M. in Human Rights. She had been a conciliation commissioner at the Tokyo family court.

She had been an ex-vice chairman of the Committee of International Human Rights (CIHR) in the Japan Federation of Bar Associations (JFBA) and a member of the Committee of Equality of Men and Women of JFBA, in charge of advocacy for gender equality. She also lobbied for reviews of Japan at the CEDAW and the UPR in the UN. Besides, she was the Secretary General of the Japan Lawyers International Solidarity Association, focusing on Japanese-Filipino children and collaborating with Filipino lawyers.
